10/1/21-Just returned from a hair appointment at Styles By Us & learned of Angie's passing, I was shocked & heartbroken & tears are flowing down my cheeks as I write this. Angie was my hairdresser for 17 years from when I moved to DE in 1990 until 2007 when she had to give up her passion due to her battle with cancer. Throughout those 17 years she became not only my hairdresser but my friend, we shared many stories from family to girl talk to her battle with cancer, knowing she knew I was a nurse she would often ask me for my advice or opinions. I feel so bad, not knowing, that I didn't attend her service. My heart goes out to her husband Alan & her son Trevor as the rest of her family. May she Rest In Peace. 🙏😭❤️

My God! I was in the salon for a cut today & just did find out that Angie had passed. She did my hair from when I move to DE in 1990 up until she had to give up her passion due to cancer. She was the best she was not only my hairdresser but became my friend & we shared many stories throughout the years regarding family, girl talk & her battle with cancer. I feel so bad that I hadn't known she passed & therefore didn't attend any of the services. My hearts go out to her husband Alan & her son Trevor & the rest of her family. May she Rest In Peace. 😭🙏 Carol Bartocci

I didn't know of Angie's recent struggles until it was too late. I worked with Angie at family haircutters and styles by us for nearly 9 years. As our boss, she was hard on us and expected perfection. Only because that's what she did. I learned a lot from her. We watched her bravely battle cancer and the birth of her son Trevor. Boy, she was really proud of him. She got upset when I left the beauty shop and eventually opened my own salon. Eventually, we made peace. She even visited my salon for Suzanne to give her a haircut. She gave me a plaque that I dearly treasure. We shared the love of racing and I followed Trevor's career on Facebook. I just wish I did a better job at telling her how much I appreciated everything she did for me. Friends please tell your loved ones how you feel before it's too late! I will continue to pray for the family. Please take peace in the fact that Angie is no longer suffering but rejoicing in heaven. She will be truly missed

I am so sorry to hear of Angie's passing. She had been through so much. I know that she will be dearly missed, but she is at peace now. She loved her family and was so proud of her Trevor. May her family find comfort in knowing that she is in God's arms and that she is made whole again. 🙏🙏
